Hancock County/Findlay City Schools Common Reopening Agreement Released

Attached below you will find the final version of the Hancock County/Findlay City Schools Common Reopening Agreement. This document is based on the collaborative efforts of Hancock Public Health and superintendents of all school districts within Hancock County. The agreement was created through review of various guidance documents and input from school boards, restart committees, and feedback from stakeholders.

At this time, the final common agreement has been provided to the Cory-Rawson Board of Education for review. After adequate review, the board of education will likely hold a special board meeting where they may act upon the common agreement.

This is an extremely difficult time for all school districts in our county, state, and nation. The Cory-Rawson Board of Education and the Cory-Rawson Local School District are committed to offering a quality education to students in a healthy environment for all district stakeholders.
