

Community Update from Mr. Hlasko

Welcome back Hornet Alumni! Homecoming week has been a whirlwind of activities and it's been great to see our students get involved, dressing up for the theme weeks all the way down to the elementary grades, cheering on the teams throughout the week, enjoying the Powder Puff football game and bonfire and, of course, the pep session on Friday afternoon yet to come! It's also great to reunite with alumni and share fond memories. This week we also had a chance to honor senior soccer parents and to thank them for the support and guidance of their senior student-athletes for so many years. Thank you parents!

Tonight, the Homecoming activities will continue with the recognition of the Homecoming Court and the announcement of Homecoming King and Queen. Congrats to the student representatives on the court (pictures are available on our home page)! Our football team will then take on North Baltimore and push for their third win in a row! The boys have been playing well...let's hope their winning ways continue!

A few additional items of note this week...

Of academic note, our District Leadership Team, comprised of teachers, guidance counselor, principals, superintendent, and parents recently completed a revision of our district academic goals. Thank you to the committee members who dedicated their time to the forthright and honest discussion regarding our focus areas. We arrived at two specific and realistic goals to ensure accountability in our improvement efforts. These goals will be distributed to our staff and will drive our efforts this year and will be revisited monthly to ensure progress and annually to review and revise so we can keep moving forward. These goals will be available on our webpage in the near future.

I've had a few questions reminding us about the commemorative bricks many purchased over the past few years...now that the connector construction is past us, we are working to get those commemorative bricks installed before our last home football game. They will be displayed right outside the connector alongside the sidewalk and board of education office. Hopefully the weather will hold out so we can finally get them in to recognize all those that have supported CR!

The connector will be open for the football game on Friday

We'll see you at the game...Good luck Hornets! Have an excellent weekend!
